NEXT FRIDAY!

Rebroadcast: 1985 International Convention in Minneapolis

It was over 40 years ago when The New Tradition's now-infamous Marx Brothers set exploded onto the International stage in Minneapolis and earned them a gold medal to a deafening crowd response. Anyone who was there that evening knew they were witnessing something special from beginning to end.

We reached out to some of the members of the quartets who sang in the finals, and also some of the folks who were in the audience. This Rebroadcast highlights many of the performances from the Finals, and also some individual performances from the Quarterfinals and Semifinals of note that helped put many of the groups on the barbershop map. Enjoy interviews with barbershoppers like John Miller, George Gipp, Pete Neushel, Kevin Keller, Kerry Denino, and others who fondly recall being a part of that moment in time.

Premieres LIVE next week:
